Sweeney Brothers In This Company; But Not "Joe"

The Muster Roll carried today would seem to support the statement that the famous inventor of the Banjo, Joel Walker Sweeney, was NOT in the War Between the States. His brothers, Robert M., Chas. H., and Samuel D., and his brother-in-law, Allen Conner, are on the Muster Roll, and the above mentioned were favorite musicians of Gen. J. E. B. Stuart and others. An affidavit was made by Allen Conner that Joel Walker Sweeney, the Banjo inventor died in October, 1860.

QUESTIONS OF THE WEEK

(Editor's note: Here are the questions asked most frequently by Virginia farmers during the past week, as reported by county agricultural agents. Staff members of the VPI Agricultural Extension Service and/or Experiment Station supply the answers.)

Q. Is it too late to seed ladino clover in pastures that need renovating?

A. Yes, it is too late.

Q. Will one spring treatment control the alfalfa weevil for the season?

A. It depends on the treatment. If granulated heptachlor was used, one treatment will be enough. If the spray was used, it may be necessary to spray a second time, depending on the season.

Q. How can I control blont in cattle?

A. This problem has claimed the attention of researchers for a long time, and many theories have been advanced. Measures often practiced are: feeding roughage before turning animals on pasture; having roughage in the pasture; seeding legume and non-legume mixtures for pasture; avoiding turning hungry animals on lush pasture; and allowing dew or moisture to dry off before pasturing.

Q. How can I get rid of ants and beetle grubs in lawns?

A. A single application of chlordane generally will kill the pests for the entire season. At the same time it will eliminate wireworms, cutworms, and other soil-dwelling insects. Follow the manufacturer's recommendations.

Q. Should I broadcast or plow down my fertilizer for corn?

A. Both have their place, depending on soil type. Plowing down has given better results on heavier soil types when the plowing was done a month to six weeks before planting.

Q. My alfalfa which was seeded last fall is yellow. What can I do?

A. It is probably caused by lack of nodulation. Another possible cause at this time of year is mildew. The only way to be sure is to send a sample to the Plant Disease Laboratory at VPI, Blacksburg. There is nothing practical you can do about it if it lack of nodulation.

Q. How can I seed lespedeza in small grain after spraying with 2,4D to control wild onions?

A. It will be safe to do it soon after, but it is now past the recommended seeding date for lespedeza.

Q. Is it too late to use 2,4-D to control wild garlic in lawns?

A. The treatment won't be as effective as if done earlier.

Q. When should heptachlor in spray be used to control the alfalfa weevil?

A. As soon as half the growing tips show damage. This can best be determined by walking through the alfalfa and observing the plants.

Homemakers Items

The care you give your wood furniture depends on whether it is new, old, or has been restored at home.

Extension specialists explain that furniture today is finished with lacquer and synthetics. The method of using oil polish, as is done on furniture refinished at home, is out for the new finishes. Oil will ruin a lacquer finish. Only cream furniture wax should be used to clean and protect. In furniture finishing now, a wax lubricant is used to develop a satin finish instead of oil. The result is a clear dry, non-oily finish. You can wipe spots off a table top with a damp soapy cloth rubbed with the grain of the wood. Wipe again with a cloth wrung from water. Then rub the surface with a dry cloth.

Too much furniture polish on shellac and varnish finishes often results in a cloudy film. This can be removed by rubbing with 000 steel wool dipped in in liquid cleaning wax. Rub with the grain of the wood. Wipe off with a clean cloth. Wax only when necessary. Dining table tops should be waxed about once each month, other furniture once or twice a year.

Furniture restored at home may be finished either with a floor seal, oil, or shellac. The finish is hand-rubbed with a cloth dipped first in a linseed oil and turpentine mixture, then in pumice. This furniture can be polished with a cloth treated with linseed oil and turpentine.

To treat a dust cloth for use on unwaxed oiled furniture, mix one tablespoon linseed oil, and one tablespoon turpentine in a pint jar. Turn the jar to coat the surface with the mixture. Drain all the mixture out of the jar. Place a soft dust cloth in the jar and cover it.

In this Kingswood, every window is Safety Plate Glass.
Nicest wagon that ever joined your family!
Chevy's station wagons should really be called family wagons. You can choose from five models, including the four-door nine-passenger Kingswood, with its rear-facing rear seat.
Here's a brisk and breezy wagon that'll take on any chore you name, from a trip to the beach to a journey home from the lumberyard. There's room, you see, for a whole half-ton of cargo—a space ten feet long, with the rear seat and tailgate down.
These wagons are easy to load, too—you just roll the rear window into the tailgate and flip it down flat. No liftgate to wrestle with.
Chevrolet's so easy to handle it's a natural for the lady of the house. Big, safer brakes, too. Chevy's even got bigger tires—they come as standard equipment on every one of our wagons. But why not fall in love with a Chevy firsthand—at your Chevrolet dealer's!
